Collegio dei Fiamminghi

Fleming Jean Jacobs’ estate was made available for funding grants awarded to talented young scientists and students from throughout Belgium and the Utrecht region of the Netherlands. Every year, Utrecht is allowed a total of four scholarships, each lasting a maximum of four months.

The grant is intended for advanced Master’s students, PhD students and possibly recent graduates of Utrecht University who would like to do a research project in Bologna and for exchange students at the Università di Bologna. Preference is given to research relating to the city of Bologna and/or incorporating prestigious research at the University of Bologna. Good research proposals will be given priority over applications for study abroad (exchange students).

The grant includes a financial allowance for housing in Bologna’s old town centre, called the Collegio dei Fiamminghi, plus a subsistence allowance (max €3,500 for a semester).

For more information, conditions and application instructions you can send a message to region1@qdesk.uu.nl.

Applications should be submitted before 15 March of each year for the next academic year.
