Programme: BA Celtic Languages and Culture

Article	Text
2.3	Colloquium Doctum The entrance examination described in Article 7.29 of the Higher Education and Research Act concerns the following courses at pre-university secondary (vwo) level: English and Dutch, and two out of three of the following courses at pre-university secondary (vwo) level: German, French and History.
3.1	Aim of the programme 1. The programme aims to provide: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • knowledge, skills and understanding in the field of Celtic Languages and Culture, and the acquisition of the exit qualifications outlined in the second paragraph; • general academic education, defined as the development of competencies (knowledge, skills and attitudes) with respect to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ academic modes of thought, conduct and communication; ○ using relevant academic tools and instruments; ○ academic and other forms of communication in the language in which the programme is taught; ○ application of specific field-related knowledge within a broader academic, philosophical and sociocultural context; ○ codes of conduct applicable during students' studies and academic careers in general. • preparation for an ongoing (academic) career. From the first year of the Bachelor's degree programme, students are familiarised with the theory and practice of academic research. 2. Graduates: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have demonstrable knowledge and understanding of the core elements of Celtic studies, particularly in the areas of Medieval Irish and Welsh linguistics, literature and culture. They have extensive general knowledge of Celtic languages and cultures that extends beyond the borders of Medieval Ireland and Wales. Graduates have intermediate passive knowledge of one of the Old Irish or Middle Welsh languages and advanced passive knowledge of the other language as well as a critical understanding of the theories and principles of their literatures and/or historical linguistics. Graduates are familiar with a number of the latest developments in this field of study (Dublin descriptor: knowledge and understanding). • Can apply their knowledge and understanding in a manner that demonstrates a professional approach to their work in this field. Graduates have learnt to formulate research questions and build clear arguments that support their position. They have the knowledge and skills required to contribute to solving problems in this field of study (Dublin descriptor: applying knowledge and understanding). • When addressing a question or problem in their field, graduates have the competences required to identify and gather relevant data and to interpret this in a manner that allows them to make informed judgements that consider relevant social, scientific and ethical issues (Dublin descriptor: making judgements). • Have developed the skills required to communicate information, ideas and solutions, about and within their field of study, to both specialist and non-specialist audiences (Dublin descriptor: communication).

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have developed the learning skills necessary to undertake further study with a high degree of autonomy (Dublin descriptor: learning skills).
3.2	Attendance mode The BA Celtic Languages and Culture is a full-time programme.
3.3	Language in which the programme is taught The programme is offered in Dutch and English.
3.5	Major Students starting from 2022-2023: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. One portion of the programme consists of the major, which has a study load of 120 EC in Celtic Languages and Culture. Within the major, the courses listed in Appendix 1, having a total study load of 67.5 EC, (excluding the thesis, see paragraph 2) are compulsory. 2. The major includes an undergraduate thesis having a study load of 7.5 EC at an advanced level (3) (see Appendix 1). This completed thesis serves as an aptitude test of the required knowledge, skills and attitudes. There is a preparatory course for the thesis. 3. The remaining courses for the major, including the 30 EC specialisation profile, an accompanying course of 7.5 EC and a language specialisation course of 7.5 EC, are to be chosen by students from among the courses listed in Appendix 2. 4. The major includes courses that are related to the academic and social context of Celtic Languages and Culture. 5. The programme components that fall within the major must include at least 45 EC in advanced level (3) courses. 6. Passing the Basic Grammar Test is a compulsory requirement of the major. Students who commenced their studies in a previous academic year must complete the curriculum as described in the EER Appendix for the year in question. As certain curricular components are no longer offered in this academic year (2022-2023), transition regulations apply (see Appendix 7).
4.7	Evaluation of quality of the education <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Director of Studies is responsible for monitoring the quality of the courses and teaching. To this end the Director of Studies will ensure that quality assurance involves evaluating courses and an evaluation at curriculum level. In ensuring the quality of courses the Director of Studies will draw on the advice and suggestions for improvement of the curriculum committees on promoting and safeguarding the quality of the course. • The courses and teaching in the degree programme will be evaluated using one or more of the following means: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • course evaluation: at the end of the course, the participating students are asked to evaluate the course through the digital survey system; • evaluation at curriculum level: through curriculum dialogues (in Dutch onderwijsgesprekken) • by means of the National Student Survey (Nationale Studenten Enquête – NSE) the students will be asked for their opinion on all aspects of the courses, teaching and the facilities. • Students who have participated in courses offered by the Faculty of Humanities will be informed of the results of the course evaluations.

Appendix 3 (art. 3.6) – Optional course package

As part of their electives (60 EC), all students must complete a package of courses totalling 30 EC. The course package options for students in the BA programme Celtic Languages and Culture are:

1. A minor at the UU or a different Dutch University.
2. Courses completed at an institution abroad.
3. A second specialisation within the BA programme Celtic Languages and Culture. The course "Language Contact and Celtic Minority Languages" falls in specialisation "Language Contact and Language Change in Celtic, the course "Medieval Celtic Palaeography" in specialisation "Interpretation and Reinterpretation of Medieval Celtic Texts".

For minors from outside Utrecht University and courses from abroad, prior approval from the Board of Examiners is required.

In exceptional cases, students may choose a combination of courses not listed here to meet this requirement. This also requires prior approval from the Board of Examiners.

Appendix 7 - Transitional Provisions BA Celtic Languages and Culture 2022-2023

General remarks

There are no transitional provisions for students who started before 2018-2019. These students should contact the study advisor if they have questions about their study programme.

Students who started in the academic years 2018-2019, 2019-2020, 2020-2021 or 2021-2022 need to complete the education programme as described in the EER-attachment for their academic year. If certain components of the programme are not offered in the current academic year 2022-2023, the following transitional provisions will apply.

The new compulsory courses are equivalent to the old courses (see below), unless stated otherwise. If a student has completed the old course, the new equivalent course can't be taken as well.

It is possible to make the transition from the exam programme of an earlier cohort to the programme of the current academic year (2022-2023). If students choose to do so, they must comply to all regulations of the exam programme of the current academic year and must request approval from the Board of Examiners. Please contact your study advisor if you are considering this.
