Description:

The project, developed within the framework of the three years long project on European Civil Procedure in a Comparative and Transnational Perspective, funded by the European Union, is aimed at developing a web platform dedicated to the topics of comparative civile procedure, EU civil procedure and transnational litigation. The students involved in the project will be involved in updating the web platform with the latest development of the relevant legislation, case law and scholars' papers, in contributing with scientific papers and case commentaries to the blog within the web platform, in assisting the coordinator in strengthening cross border relations with European and extra-European universities, centres of research and institutes active in the field. In addition, he/she will be asked to contribute in the preparation of the lectures and seminars of the course. Finally, the students will also be involved in the editorial project of a Handbook on the topics of the Jean Monnet Module ('European Civil Procedure').
